High Points Awards For Year 1968

Each year the Kansas Western Horseman's Association awards high point honors to top contestants in each of its five age groups or divisions. These awards are based on points tallied throughout the year at approved association horse shows. The awards are well earned when considering the great many contestants in competition for such honors.

In the 1-9 group: Debbie Wilt, Santa Fe Stables of Pratt, won top honors with brother Ronnie Wilt winning the honors in the 10-13 age group. Debbie with 344 points and Ronnie with 267 tallied almost exactly two-thirds of the Santa Fe club's points for the year. With these two contestants and others in the club, they finished in 3rd for club high points.

From the Sandhill club of Hutchinson, Eddie Hamilton took the honors in the 14-17 age group with 209 points. Karen Russell, also of Sandhill, took honors in the ladies division with 280 points. This club finished on top for total points with 2,220 points. Rock Warren, Derby Silver Dollar club, won the awards in the men's division with 178 points.

The Leoti Rough Riders finished in 2nd place with 1,454 points. In 4th was the Hill City Pioneers with 832 points and in 5th was the Mulvane club with 775 points.

EQUINE HEALTHSENSE

By Roy C. Russell, DVM

The show season has come to an end with the finals and many a fine animal has suddenly become a fixture that requires daily attention. In fact there were a few of these good animals at the KWHF finals that had been fixtures and not in training for some time before the season ended. This discussion and the problems some of these horses incurred at the show are better known as "tying up" syndrome or mild azoturia.

The pattern most horse or pony owners have in regard to feeding will have great effect upon the incidence of azoturia. For example, you feed 1 gallon of mixed feed night and morning and a small flake of good alfalfa once a day and all the good prairie hay your horse can eat. This becomes habit during the summer when you or your kids are using your horse several days during the week and every weekend.

School starts and the weather changes and old Dobbin finds himself getting a rest and still the same amount of feed. Suddenly he gets a little fat and soft but still can do a good job of running or riding if asked to. Since the regular work has suddenly dropped and the feed has remained the same, there are certain acids which form next to muscle fibers when the horse is made to work. Excess acids form usually 10 to 30 minutes after exercise begins and symptoms develop.

The most common symptoms are muscle rigidity and lameness affecting the muscles of the croup or loins, accompanied by pain, patchy sweating, disinclination to move and a little later, brown or coffee colored urine. Colic must be differentiated from tying up. In a colic case it is best to keep a horse moving and exercising and just the opposite is best for a horse tying up.

To prevent tying up, the best concept is to feed your horse good before you work him and reduce the feed content when he is just being stalled and not ridden. This condition is very similar and possibly related to the old work horse condition called "Monday Morning disease". This name is very descriptive when one realizes the whole picture. The habit of feeding a work horse was the same as previously discussed and the amount of feed was the same on Sunday as the rest of the week only the horse usually just stood in his tie stall while the family went to church and on to grandmothers house for the rest of the day.

Monday morning comes and to the field we go to plow corn or what ever work is in season. Suddenly the driver sees one of the team lagging and he shakes the lines or snaps the whip to equalize the load because no one likes to see a loafer. This may happen again rather suddenly and probably the same situation repeats then suddenly the horse quits and starts sweating rapidly. This condition of too much feed in relation to the work is the cause. Feed your horse heavy the meal before work begins and not after the work is done.

The treatment by your veterinarian will be successful providing too much damage to the muscles or kidneys has not occurred.

McPherson Highlights

McPherson Saddle Club as a whole has had a very properous year. Ending the seasons "Fun Horse Shows" with five High Point trophy winners were: Pat Watkins, winning the OCAW Union trophy, Shannon Gibson, Farmers Co-op trophy; Jill Bremeyer, Thompson Transport trophy; Diana Rinehart, OCAW Union trophy; Rex Simpson, Gingers Beauty Shop trophy. Audrey Colyn, saddle club president presented the trophies.

Carmella Colyn, rode all the way to the top by being selected the 1968 AQHA Queen at the American Quarter Horse Show in Salina. Carmella is away now for her first year in college at KU.

Tom Miller has hit nearly all the Registered Quarter horse halter Classes this year and it has certainly paid off. Up till now he has the high point yearling quarter horse gelding in the State. Tom's family is following in his footsteps with Julie and her newly purchased horse and Lonnie with their mare, doing fine jobs at showing in the showmanship classes.

Brit King won a trip to the American Royal with his mare for being Champion 4-H Showman. Several of our youth won Blues at the 4-H Fair entitling them to go on to the State Fair competition where they did equally well. Del Peterson took a 3rd blue and Kay Ann Rockhold a 5th blue in the horsemanship class. Shannon Gibson and Tim Walker were also blue ribbon winners in their age group. Jill Bremeyer was a blue ribbon winner in the Reining Class. Julie Miller was Reserve Champion Showman at the 4-H Fair and San Watkins was Reserve Champion in the Horsemanship classes but these two could not go to the fair because they were not old enough.

Cozette Colyn had a successful season with her horse "Aster Bay" receiving the high point trophy's both at the Canton and McPherson Fairs. Being Champion in the Horsemanship Class at the 4-H Fair entitling her to go on to the State Fair and the American Royal. Then suddenly "Aster Bay" became very ill and died a very painful death. Since then Cozette has purchased a Registered Arabian Gelding "Beaumur" from Ivan Peden, this will enable Cozette to continue on with her English riding as well as her Western. Would like to mention that our Saddle Club is very proud of Cozette for being selected as one of the six finalists in the "Miss Teenage Wichita Pageant." Our best wishes go with you Cozette.

The saddle club had planned an overnight trail ride to Kanapolis Lake only to be rained out. So we rode our horses out to the Colyn ranch for a hamburger fry the following weekend. Darrell Thompson showed his highly illustrated slide pictures of the Government mission flight and the cattle he had sold to a Mennonite Settlement in Paraguay. It was truly a very educational evening.

It has been an active but exciting summer, getting the horses as well as the riders ready for the horse shows then having the satisfied feeling that we each have done our best job, win or lose.

We all join in extending our sympathy to Vice President Jim Thomas and his family. We are very sorry to learn of the sudden death of his mother as a result of an accident in Hobbs, New Mexico.

Sheplers Build New Western Establishment

WICHITA, KANSAS . . Super structure will be raised for a 20,000 square foot retail store adjacent to present Shepler facilities on U.S. Highway 54 west of Wichita.

J. Robert Dry, president, says that the finished Shepler facility will be a unique store where the rancher or sportsman and his family can shop complete lines of clothing, hats, and boots, as well as horseshoes, saddles, and western, racing, and English tack. Founded shortly after the turn of the century, the business has been known as Shepler's since 1946. It is advertised as the world's largest western department store.

Southwestern architecture is being used for the new building. The exterior will be of white stucco, cedar timbers, and Spanish tile. A stucco and cedar fence will surround the area. Cottonwood trees will be included in the landscaping.

Shepler's western gear and wear itself will serve as the decor for the interior. A huge woodburning fireplace and southwestern relics will serve as background. A balcony will contain the company offices.

The landscaped parking facilities will include special provisions for stock trucks and trailers. A farriery and a corral where horses in transit can be exercised are being considered for inclusion on the grounds.

The existing building will be remodeled to serve as warehouse and mail order center. The mail order facilities will incorporate the very latest systems for handling orders from throughout the world. Construction and remodeling will be completed by the start of 1969, according to Dry.

Annual Dinner For Leoti Rough Riders

The annual award banquet of Leoti Rough Riders Saddle Club was held Monday evening, Dec. 9, at the Community Building. A baked steak dinner was served to 110 persons by the Altar Society, Guild No. 1. Music throughout the evening was provided by Kenneth Hooker, Gillies Neyer and John Wing.

Program chairman Warren Townsend explained the two scholarships presented by the club each year. Dr. Carl Zink gave an informative speech on the care and vaccination of horses.

Rita Cudney, queen for 1969, was presented a banner and plaque by '68 queen Deana Wieggers. Rick Mullen received the "Hard Luck" plaque; Leola Owens, the sportsmanship award; Roy Cudney was presented a belt buckle and Leola Owens received a pen set.

Dean Wieggers received the high point senior trophy and Rita Cudney the high point junior trophy.

The state awards were presented with the Leoti Club receiving the second place trophy with a total of 1454 points. Individual awards went to Gordon Tankersley, Ronald Biel, Rita Cudney, Rick Mullen, Randy Winter, Lester Burch, Dean Wieggers, Jon Vogelgesang, Willis Crowley, Perry Owens, Rod Oberheim, Rex Oberheim, Tom McBride, Steve Tankersley, Harold Thurston, Spohn Owens, Lori Cowles, Harold Todd, Leonard Mullen, and Oran Tankersley.

The 1969 officers introduced were Spohn Owens, pres.; Roy Cudney, v-pres.; and Lorna Wieggers, sec-treas.

The 1969 board of directors are Dean Wieggers, Spohn Owens, Roy Cudney, Asher Crowley, Kenneth Hooker, Carl Zink, Claude Tankersley, Leola Owens, Lloyd Crouch, and Leonard Mullen. Junior directors are Rita Cudney and Rick Mullen.

Prizes were won by Jon Vogelgesang, J. C. Owens, Shane Mullen, Lloyd Crouch and Beulah Smades.

All in all the Rough Riders had a busy year. Last winter they ran the concession stand at several horse sales held at the local sale barn. Early in the Spring the club and various other local organizations built a new arena. Fun nights were held about every Tuesday throughout the summer plus a trail ride was held nearly every month.

As I See It

by Bill Evans

During the past three years the Horseman's Herald has shed a little light over hundreds of horsemen and related organizations by offering its services and a chance for anyone to be heard. It began from a small club bulletin paper and a few financial backers, all of whom are horse people directly or indirectly. How long this young publication will be around is a question that hasn't been answered but has been asked.

In this column in the past I've been critical. I've praised and just talked about things I've felt should be heard. But I'm no editor. Sure, I enjoy writing an article and even putting the publication together but that doesn't make an editor. To be a good editor you must make it your first interest, let it interfere with your family life, jeopardize your job and expect pros and cons for everything you've written or put together.

Since this magazine was foaled, many changes have been made - both in this book and personally. In the book its type of material and appearance have made it a pretty fair publication. Personally it's a different story. Our growing family of five children need a great deal of attention for one thing. Another, it was our horses that brought me into the publication and last year we had our first successful year even after waiting until August to begin - mostly because of the magazine. A full time editor gives very little time to training and showing horses, finally, and most practical as to the concern of our directors, my own job has changed demanding more time and responsibilities which gives even less time devoted to the magazine. Along with everything else I'm president of the local club, a vice-president in the N.S.C.A., with the job of organizing an annual yearbook and also play basketball with two different adult teams. I don't see how I can do this magazine justice in the future - I haven't done the best that should have been done in the past.

Still, I won't just up and quit - I am looking for a solution to a better editing job and will have at least one proposal for the directors to vote on soon. If we can find you a good editor or co-editor you will have a much needed publication to serve our level of horsemen.

Letters

Dear Sir:

All Show Committees and Contestants hope for better shows don't they? I believe much of the dissension about judges comes about because we DO have bigger and better shows each year. Our contestants are no longer good riders . . . they are expert horsemen . . . they read their rule books, they take lessons, they go to whatever sources required to make themselves better at showing. Consequently, they know WHAT they should be judged on and in most cases which one did the best job today. Now it is time our judges update their thinking and pay the same attention to the details and technicalities of the classes as our contestants do. There is a difference in Horsemanship and Western Pleasure . . . there is a difference in Reining and running the pattern!

Judges Arise! Make yourselves worthy of the title by doing some studying AGAIN and by choosing a winner on his merits on that day, not because he won under someone else. We need you, and you need our support if you are going to continue to get shows. Our youngsters are very fair . . . they are the first to know and to say so if they didn't do a good job. The least we can be is be fair to them!

Some Associations require a report from the show committee of their opinion of the judge and how he handled the show. Should our KWHA Board of Directors request this of our show committee?
